In addition, the rapid increase in African middle-class households has increased the market for luxury goods as there is demand for better quality products due to growing disposable income. The African markets are moving from basic commodities to modern lifestyle economies. This change in African buying habits has caused a boost to the sales of the fashion brand segment, and provides vast opportunities for investors, fashion houses as well as fashion and beauty professionals looking to expand internationally.

The textile and clothing industry presents a lot of potential for value added benefits and job creation. It is estimated that up to 600% of value can be created along the cotton value chain: from cotton production, spinning and twisting into yarn, to weaving and knitting into fabric, followed by dyeing, printing and designing. The fashion industry is a very profitable sector, from production to marketing, and additional jobs and wealth can be created every step of the way. Furthermore, this industry is composed of a majority of micro, small and medium enterprises (MSMEs), which can rapidly generate decent jobs.

International textile manufacturers are turning to Africa as a new source of labor – and – as a growing consumer market. Africa is clearly and quickly taking on a greater role in the global fashion value chain.

SPECIAL – AFRICAN COTTON:

There are approximately 50 million small-holder farmers who grow a wide range of crops, both inter-cropped and in rotation. Cotton remains an extremely important crop in most parts of Africa for a number of reasons:

- The cotton industry’s supply chain is a large scale and last mile delivery network of extension services and input providers which are frequently leveraged to support the whole farm;
- Cotton has a developed trading and logistics infrastructure that benefits farmers and complementary crops grown on the farm;
- Cotton is an important source of foreign exchange revenues for more than 20 African countries; and
- Cotton production is required to spur a textile industry which can serve as the “first rung” on the industrialization ladder to create employment and build a middle class.

AFRICA SOURCING AND FASHION WEEK offers variety of cotton from West and Central Africa.

AFRICA: CONTINENT WITH GREAT POTENTIAL

At present, Africa has a population of 1.2 billion people. The future estimates of the growth of the population is 2 billion by 2050 and 4 billion by 2100. This gives a huge opportunity in the form of a large market size for investors to leverage on. Fashion brands with the right marketing strategy have good chances to flourish. And about 200 million people between 15 and 24 years old make Africa the youngest continent in the world.
AFRICA SOURCING AND FASHION WEEK (ASFW) is Africa's largest meeting platform for fashion, sustainability and innovation. Here major foreign buyers, investors, brands and retail industry meet with Africa's leading fashion and manufacturing industry to discuss sourcing. ASFW is largest and a must-to-attend event for the world’s cotton, textile and garment industry who discuss current issues, solution and future visions in Africa.

IN 2023 ASFW IS HIGHLIGHTING THE FOLLOWING TOPICS:
- Regional Integration in Trade
- Sustainability in Manufacturing
- Environmental Protection

BENEFIT FROM AFRICA’S BIGGEST EXHIBITION, CONFERENCE AND B2B PLATFORM:
- After Asia, Africa is the most important sourcing continent for the entire textile value chain.
- Africa as the youngest continent is a major magnet for companies who want to sell and do business.
- AfCFTA will bring more business opportunities for international companies who engage with African counterparts.
- The rise of middle-income society is a huge potential for textile, garment and other fashion products.
- ASFW EXPO: In four days leading manufacturers of cotton, textile, apparel and technology present their goods and expertise to over 5,000 international trade visitors.

The African fashion industry has been evolving significantly over the last years. Many African designers have been seen participating on the international stage showcasing their creativity and designs and being applauded by fashion lovers worldwide. Their representations in magazines and fashion events have put the spotlight on the growing fashion scene of the African continent.

Not only the unique fabrics and designs, but also the African culture, heritage and beauty have left a long-lasting impression on the international fashion stage.

Africa’s creative industry overall has started gaining notice both regionally and internationally. Several local fashion brands have earned global recognition due to the talent and artistry of their designers. One remarkable award-winning designer is Folake Folarin-Coker. Her brand Tiffany Amber has particularly become popular during the New York Fashion Week. In the meantime, her collection has been displayed in London, New York and Paris. Another upcoming artist, Deola Sagoe has dressed international artists like Rihanna and Solange Knowles.

WALK FOR BUSINESS by ASFW is a unique concept that supports African top designers to get in touch with regional and international partners / retailers and ensures business. Manufacturers are engaged in the concept to ensure production and business for the designers if needed. All designers showcase their products at a dedicated area with design-booths. In addition selected designers have the opportunity to promote their designs at the ASFW Catwalk.
